JANUARY 21, 2015 | Brno, Czech Republic

Alda Games brings its the most recent title Defend Your Life! to players attracted by iOS and Android devices. The fourth game from Czech developers is tower defense strategy set in human body.

Works on the game began in the second half of 2013. The game was exclusively published for Windows Phone covered by AppCampus program next year in the October. The feedback was great and from now is Defend Your Life! available for iOS and Android players. This version offers some new features like in-game heroes.

Behind the very first idea lies nostalgia for a French cartoon series Once Upon a Time... Life. Czech developers welcome players in 17 epic battles in 3 difficulty modes in a stylized hand painted world of essential human organs. Players can look forward to constructing 4 basic types of buildings with many upgrades, various enhancements and extension tree with special abilities and powers like Electroshock, Bomb or Adrenaline. The game will challenge tactical and strategic thinking of player in war against more than 20 types of enemy units and 2 main bosses at the end of each major stage.

The game is available in 10 languages. To be more concrete: English, German, French, Italian, Brazilian Portuguese, Spanish and Russian. Defend Your Life! can enjoy also players able to read Japanese or simplified Chinese.

Defend Your Life! is available for free with opportunity to purchase Diamonds. These can be spent in order to buy various features helping during the fights. For example the strongest unit - Golem or additional Oxygen which is source for constructing towers. More info about Defend Your Life! is available on official website.
